Mrs. J. C. Hopkins died at her residence in our town last Friday night, after a short illness. She was a good woman, and her loss is deeply deplored. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband and children.

The negroes whom we mentioned in a late issue as having been arrested for stealing goods from our merchants, were tried by Circuit Court and three of them convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary, to-wit: Joe Burks and Tom Eddle, 2 years each, and Joe Green 18 months. They are now digging coal.

At a stated meeting of Cumberland Lodge No. 158, F. & A. M., on the night of the 23d ult., the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: W. L. Jones, W. M.; A. J. Skidmore, S. W.; J. N. Logan, J. W.; H. H. Dulin, Sec'y.; Isaac Young, Treas.; W. W. Martin, S. D.; S. A. Denson, J. D.; John Heiser, S. & T.

A kindness shown when most needed assumes double value, and the superb dinner of every variety of good things; the happy faces of about twenty elegant lady students; the charming music, and especially the easy, cordial manner in which Mr. and Mrs. Graves always entertain a guest, are pleasures we enjoyed Christmas Day, to which our memory will long revert to.

Capt. James H. Irwin, of Savannah, Tenn., a most agreeable gentleman, visited our town last week. Capt. Irwin is a candidate for State Treasurer, in alluding to the Knoxville Daily Tribune says: "He is endorsed by the best men in the State as a gentleman of culture and intelligence, of fine business qualifications, energetic, of strict integrity, and in every way eminently qualified for the responsible position he seeks."

A reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. George Weddington at their home near town, on the evening of the 26th ult., in honor of the marriage of their son, George, to Miss Sula Tenney, of Giles county. We were honored with an invitation, but were too busy to attend. A goodly number were present, and the occasion, we learn, was an exceedingly happy one. George and his bride have our best wishes.

Four gentlemen, Messrs. G. G. Phillips, John Simmons, Geo. Thompson and John R. Beasley, determined last Saturday night to establish a Literary Society in Winchester. A meeting will be held at Mr. Phillips' residence this (Wednesday) evening, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of perfecting the organization and agreeing upon a programme. An invitation to be present is extended to all the ladies and gentlemen in Winchester who desire to become members.

Rev. W. W. Estill, formerly a citizen of our town, and a prominent minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, died very suddenly of heart disease, in Chattanooga, on Thursday last week. He was about 50 years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children. His remains were brought here and interred in the Winchester cemetery on Friday. He was a most estimable gentleman, and a large number of relatives and friends mourn his loss.

The Musical Concert at Mary Sharp College on Friday night following our last issue is highly spoken of by the large number who attended. We are sorry that we failed to attend. "Junius" the Winchester correspondent of the Nashville World, speaks as follows of the entertainment: "The selections were so fine we should like to give them in full, but space forbids. Under the supervision of Prof. Utermoehlen the concert could only be a success, and our people have the highest appreciation of his concerts. We are not manipulators of the English language enough to do this entertainment justice. There were several songs and instrumental pieces which we have never heard excelled. Miss Elsie Mansfield, assistant professor of music, is certainly a young lady of rare vocal powers, which she has carried to a high state of the art. She is truly an artist. In 'Band of the River,' and 'The Day is Done,' she won fresh laurels for her already brilliant name as a vocalist. Miss Hannah Henderson exhibited great proficiency as a pianist, and showed that she possessed an exquisite touch rarely equalled; and Prof. Utermoehlen, we will only say that the Chicago Tribune was not far wrong when it said she was only second to Ole Bull. We were heard of the violin under the management of the bow being made to talk and cry, but we never heard it give out, and made every one there happy. We hope the professor will again favor

There is a general rush to J. A. Lenehan for Diamond Dust Flour—the commonest favorite; but, being supplied by Elk River Mills, he keeps a supply on hand. He has the best meal in the State—also from Elk River Mills. BROWN & DAVIS, Proprietors.

THE POE BOYS.

Found Guilty of Murder in the First Degree, With Mitigating Circumstances

John Sentenced to be Hung, and Cicero Sentenced to the Penitentiary for Life.

On Wednesday, Dec. 20th, (the date of our last issue,) the jury in the case of the State vs. John and Cicero Poe, rendered a verdict of murder in the first degree with mitigating circumstances. Thursday morning the counsel for the prisoners made a formal motion for a new trial, and took occasion to make a touching appeal for the lives of the prisoners. Judge Williams decided to postpone judgment until next day at 10 o'clock, and at that hour a large crowd had gathered in the Court-room. Judge W. then asked if counsel had anything further to say, whereupon the counsel for defendants stated to the Court that they were informed by some of the jurors that they expected the punishment to be commuted to imprisonment for life; that this was the meaning of their verdict; that they understood it; and that no verdict would have been rendered at all under any other consideration. Judge W. intimated that he had already made up his mind as to the verdict, that a great responsibility was thrown upon the Court in this case, and that it would be well, perhaps, to wait until the Court was enlightened by the affidavits of jurors in relation to the point presented by the counsel for the defendants, and for this purpose the judgment of the Court would be postponed until the next Wednesday at ten o'clock.

On Wednesday, Dec. 27th, at half-past ten o'clock the prisoners were brought into Court, and, in the presence of a large crowd, Judge Williams proceeded to give his judgment in the case. In the first place, however, he asked the counsel for the defendants if they had anything further to say, whereupon the counsel presented the affidavits of seven jurors, whose names are as follows: J. N. Icard, Wm. R. Willis, T. M. Collins, John L. Gibson, Alex. Urserly, John Cochran and J. M. Wakefield—all of whom say in their affidavits that they would not have brought in the verdict as they did if they had not thought it would be the duty of the Judge to commute the sentence to imprisonment; that it would have been a hung jury; and that they were not satisfied from the evidence that John and Cicero Poe ought to be hung. The counsel for the defendants also brought to the attention of the Court the fact that the officer in charge of the jury had been absent at one time from the jury during the trial of the case. Evidence was introduced which showed that the officer had been sick with colic and the officer went after Dr. Urisand to administer to him. It also appeared that the officer had locked the door and put the key in his pocket. The Judge, in rendering his judgment, said the first question was whether he should grant a new trial, and that that depended upon whether the prisoners were entitled to it because the officer was temporarily absent for a cause that seemed to him necessary. After reasoning elaborately upon this point the motion for a new trial was overruled.

The next question was whether the prisoners should be hung or imprisoned for life. The Judge took up the cases of the two Poes separately and considered first the case of Cicero. This defendant, he said, had proved his previous good character, which was a witness in his behalf. It further appeared that he was a young man, not more than twenty years old when this crime was committed, and perhaps these were the mitigating circumstances in his case in the opinion of the jury. In his case, therefore, the sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life.

The case of John, however, was different, and the Judge said he could see no mitigating circumstances in his case, and that it was not a case in which the sentence of death should be commuted. The Judge then asked the prisoners if they had anything to say why the judgment of the Court should not be passed upon them in accordance with the opinion he had indicated, whereupon John Poe arose and said that he did not know that he was able to say anything; that he was sick and had been for several days; that he was as innocent of the death of young Baker as his Honor or any one in the Courtroom; that he never saw young Baker in his life; that he was sorry young Baker was dead, and sympathized with his family, particularly his mother, because she was the only one who had spoken to him a kind word when he was brought in chains to this town. The tears stood in John's eyes as he spoke. Cicero said he had nothing to say, and thereupon the Judge sentenced John to death—fixing February 23d as the day of execution—and Cicero to imprisonment for life.

The case will go again to the Supreme Court, which is now in session, and will probably be acted upon within the next few weeks.

DIED.—Nov. 26th, 1882, Annie C. South, eldest daughter of Rev. Leonidas South, of the 17th district, aged 18 years, 10 months and 20 days.

Decensed united with the Separate Baptist Church, at New Bethel, in August, 1878, and died peacefully resigned to the will of her master. This dispensation of Providence is particularly distressing, as this is the third bereavement brother South has been called upon to endure this year. On February 16th his wife died. About six weeks afterwards his infant son died, and now Anna has gone. May the promises of the Gospel be the stay and comfort of the afflicted ones.

About Dancing.

We have always tried to be honest and independent in what we wrote for the Home Journal. We have tried to avoid Puritanism in all its phases. For instance, if we should take a hook and line and go angling some dull Sunday evening, and should catch a few fish, to us it would be no sin, no more than if we were to take a buggy ride, or a walk for pleasure. And surely the catching of the fish would be no more worse than the killing of a chicken for a "big Sunday dinner." Our angling would be nothing like as wicked as to sit all day idle, telling vulgar "yarns," or tattling about the affairs of our neighbor. Nothing like as wicked as to worry our brain about some hard bargain we would drive with some fellow the next day. Nor do we think it any more sin to go to a circus, or minstrel show, than to any other place of amusement. But we have always opposed what are called "round dances." Some one will now cry out: "Honi soit qui mal y pense." Well, cry it out. But we want to extract a little from a story we read the other day. A sensible young man did not want his affianced to dance a round dance. She said it was graceful exercise.

"Dancing is not graceful," he said. "It looks silly to see grown men and women, who should carry themselves with dignity, to get up before the gaze of a crowded hall-room, and contort and twist their bodies in every turn of the dance. You could expect such things from monkeys or frolicsome children, but it looks ridiculous in grown people. If a person is not graceful the dance will never make him so. As for the exercise, I admit it is beautiful. But why not practice it at home?"

"Everybody dances. The Bible tells of somebody—David, wasn't it—dancing for joy, or something?" she asked, vaguely, not quite certain that she had gotten the right name.

"There are frequent allusions to dancing made in the Bible," he admitted. "But if you will take the trouble to look them up, there is no mention made of the sexes mingling in the dance."

"Well, a girl is nowhere if she doesn't dance."

"She had better be nowhere than to be handed as a piece of common property from the arms of one man to another. If you could but hear the comments of some of the men who dance, you would willingly and quickly give it up forever."

"Oh, they will comment anyhow."

"That is a good reason why you should give them as little cause for doing so as possible. A woman who is a thoroughly modest, refined woman, would not permit, in public, the familiarities from a man that she would shrink from in disgust were he to attempt them in private. You see well-bred, well-raised young ladies in dancing allow their partners to encircle their waists with impunity, but were they to attempt such a thing at home in their parlors, they would be invited from the house."

"Of course, and very properly. You see custom makes it necessary in the dance. It is ridiculous to cry out upon a time-honored institution that society approves."

"I do not think a custom or society should be tolerated that causes woman, the embodiment of all our purest and highest associations, the ideal that should raise men, to descend from her throne of modesty and chastity to the common mingling with the brainless fops of a ball-room."

MARRIED.—Dec. 26th, 1882, at the residence of the bride's father, (Mr. Geo. Lefebvre,) in this place, by Rev. James Wagner, Mr. Joseph R. Sewell to Miss Ida R. Lefebvre. The bride is a graduate of Mary Sharp College, and worthy the heart and hand of any man. We are not personally acquainted with the groom, but those who know him speak of him as being a most estimable gentleman. The happy couple have our best wishes for happiness and prosperity.

An Apology.

Dear Mr. Smith:—In making our "Cash Argument" in last week's Journal, we used your name in connection with Messrs. Lenehan and Masons, and we are very sorry to learn that some of the parties were offended at it. Now, to make everything pleasant, we have instructed the Home Journal to blur Mason out, and instead let a little blank mark occupy the same space, which will answer every purpose. If you have no objection we would like to retain your name, and in the future if our argument should pinch you a little, and you should become offended, we will have it blurred out like unto Mason. (not John, we did not mean him in the first,) and as to Lenehan, we meant P. & Steve.

Mr. Smith, our team is fresh and harness good. We will not drag or be led. We are on level ground. You may build a hill for us; but Mr. Smith, you know, to build a hill you must commence at the top. Then you will work down hill all the time. (Great advantage in the building, but when you have finished it you will be at the foot, and you will find us right at the top of your hill.) Our little old boy sorrel has never been known to balk.

Yours, &c.,
P. & S. LENEHAN.

Where send our sons and daughters?

THE WINCHESTER NORMAL

OFFERS SUPERIOR ADVANTAGES IN English, Mathematics, Natural Science, Philosophy, Primary Studies, Latin and German, History and Literature, Music and Art, Book-keeping, Penmanship, Theory and Practice of Teaching.

THE FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION

Begins August 29, (Tuesday) 1882. The outlook for the future is full of promise. The enrollment was 527 the past year. The growth from the first has been steady and healthy, and to-day the Normal is the largest school of its age in Tennessee.

A FULL FACULTY

Of earnest, experienced, and successful teachers are employed. Besides the seven regular teachers, several assistants, full of vigor and enthusiasm, render valuable help.

Dr. Joseph Baldwin, author of School Management, says of the President, J. W. Terrill: "As a teacher and manager, he has few equals. His school at Huntsville impressed me as the best I had ever visited."

Dr. W. R. Caldwell, of William Jewell College, Mo., says: "Few men of his age in Missouri, or the West, have won and sustained a higher reputation as a successful, practical teacher and College President than Mr. Terrill."

Prof. W. P. Mason, President of North Missouri Normal, says: "He is an educator of the very first rank; as a preceptor officer and teacher he has very few equals."

Prof. R. A. Clark is a native of Tennessee and a Christian gentleman of the highest type. He has studied and taught for twelve years in the town of Winchester, and his work and success in the classroom show him to-day one of the most accomplished teachers in Tennessee. While he is a self-made man and teacher, and no graduate, yet none of our college-bred teachers will dare question or test his ability and skill by comparing, or comparing results, with him. From the results of the old colleges he has readily accepted natural, or Normal, methods.

Miss Mattie Estill graduated in Mary Sharp College in 1875, and that institution honored her with a position as teacher, giving to her work and scholarship much praise. Since then she has spent two years in the Normal preparing herself for the grand work of teaching. She is a lady of fine ability, and an indefatigable student and worker. Her fine social qualities, her long training in Theory and Art of teaching, her scholarship, and her experience in actual work of the school-room, all combine to make her a very superior teacher. Her fitness, both natural and acquired, will be admitted by those who witness her work.

Mrs. Collie Terrill, Principal of Preparatory Department, has had an experience of twelve years in teaching primary branches and little children. Only after years of arduous study and training did she enter upon this work. Since 1876 she has taught in Winchester, and it will be admitted by all that she has lifted Primary Teaching to a higher plane of excellence, thus conferring lasting benefits on our youth and school. In Primary Work she is without a peer, not only in Winchester, but, we believe, in this portion of the State.

Miss Bessie Beuchamp, of Texas, takes the place vacated by Prof. Wm. McElhannon. She has several years' experience as a teacher. We assure our patrons and students that no mistake has been made in her selection. She was for years a student of President Terrill's in Missouri.

Miss Lillie Bledsoe has taught in the Normal the past two years, and her success has warranted the Faculty in purchasing her instruments throughout for her work in future. In this Department she will compare favorably with teachers of other schools.

Miss Mamie French takes charge of an Art School in the Normal. This is a new and valuable feature to which we attach special attention. She is well qualified, and comes to make permanent and successful this Department of the school.

Miss Mattie Terrill, well known to the students and friends of the Normal, will teach half her time in the various Departments, as may be needed.
